LOAN ASSOCIATIONS.

THE WESTERN AND THE NATIONAL LOAN ASSOCIATIONS SUED.

Demand That the Transfer of the Assets of the Former to the Latter Be Set Aside and a Receiver Appointed.

C. E. Langham, Harry Haynes, Andrew Eggerston, Wilson H. Dusenberry, John E. Taylor and about 100 other stockholders have commenced suit in the Third district court against the Western Loan and Savings company, the National Building and Loan association of Salt Lake city, Hudson Smith and H. P. Mason.

The complaint sets forth that on or about July 8, 1893, the assets and business of the said National Building and Loan association were by a series of proceedings transferred to the Western Loan and Savings company, that at that time the National had had only a nominal existence and transacted no business whatever; that at the time the transfer of the assets of the National were made the directors of the National were then insolvent, the face value of all the assets not being sufficient by a sum exceeding $23,000 to pay its liabilities, which fact was known to none of the shareholders except the directors named.

Without any knowledge of a deficiency in the assets of the National, plaintiffs were induced to vote for the transfer, and by reason of representations made to them.

Plaintiffs further allege that no meeting of stockholders of the Western Loan and Savings company was called or held relating to a so-called "merger" or practical consolidation of the National with the Western, but that all negotiations, contracts and agreements in connection therewith were made and executed on behalf of the Western Loan and Savings company by the directors and officers of the company, without the authority, knowledge or approval of the stockholders or two-thirds thereof, and that no meeting of the stockholders of said company was called or held relating to the transfer.

Plaintiffs then declare, upon information and belief, that the Western, through its directors and officers, were fully advised and well aware before entering into negotiations that the so-called "merger" or practical consolidation of the two corporations was illegal and contrary to the laws of the territory, that its directors and officers conspired and combined with the directors of the National, entered into negotiations in consequence of a pre-conceived design and with the intent to defraud and wrongfully transfer the business and assets and to deceive, cheat and compel the shareholders of the National to sign agreements to transfer their shares and right to the Western.

It is likewise alleged that certain persons, to-wit: Clarence Grant, secretary of the Western, were procured by misrepresentation, and by the procurement of the said Western Loan and Savings company, and in pursuance of the general scheme to illegally transfer the business.

After reciting other wrongful acts in regard to certain notes, plaintiffs go on to aver that since the transfer of the business was made to it, the Western Loan and Savings company has usurped and attempted to exercise the corporate rights and franchises of the National, and in general used and appropriated its assets without regard to the rights of the shareholders, and that the said Western company has received and retained the assets of the National or the Western.

As a further averment upon information and belief that the directors of the National have grossly mismanaged the business of the association, falsely represented its condition to the shareholders and paid out its moneys in a manner contrary to law; its assets have been allowed to shrink to an amount exceeding $25,000 below the sum actually due to the shareholders by reason of unlawful payments, etc. It is claimed likewise that the directors have issued shares of stock contrary to law and without consideration.

Plaintiffs wind up by saying that the National Building and Loan association by its stockholders have suffered damage by reason of the foregoing acts to the extent of $25,000, and that the directors should be compelled to pay to the shareholders the sum of $25,000, so that the plaintiffs, as withdrawing members, may be awarded their pro rata share of the amount.

Wherefore plaintiffs pray that the transfer of the assets and business and all transactions connected therewith be declared illegal and void; that (among other things) the Western Loan and Savings company be compelled to forthwith turn over all assets of the National to a receiver, who shall be authorized to pay to plaintiffs, as withdrawing members, successive dividends upon their stock whenever sufficient amount is received to pay a dividend of 10 per cent. of the amount to which they, as shareholders, are entitled upon their stock; that the defendant companies be ordered to turn over all books of account and record papers and documents in their possession; that such receiver be authorized to prosecute a suit on behalf of the National, and the shareholders thereof, including plaintiffs, against Hudson Smith, H. P. Mason, F. C. Gentsch, Boyd Park, J. F. Coker, Charles Baldwin and E. Richardson, as directors, and any of the directors of said corporation who may be liable for the recovery of adequate damages amounting to at least twenty-five thousand dollars ($25,000) for the fair report and representations of the condition of the corporation to its shareholders made by said directors and ex-directors, and for mismanagement and gross neglect of duty in the conduct of the business, also for paying out its money contrary to orders and for illegally issuing shares of stock without consideration.

Judge Barlow, on motion of the plaintiffs' attorneys, has granted a restraining order, prohibiting defendants from selling certain real estate at Utah and other residence in Montana, Colorado and Iowa.

Instruction of Children.

Teach children to do little things about the house. It trains them to be useful, not awkward, in later and more important affairs; it gives them occupation while they are waiting, and it really is an assistance to the mother in the end, although she always feels, during the training period, that it is much easier to do the thing herself than to show another how. This last excuse has done much to make selfish, idle, unhandy members of an older society, and should be remembered in its effects by the mother while the little ones are beginning to learn all things good and bad, at her knee. Occupation makes happiness, and occupation cannot be acquired too young.—New York World.
